

The Pulse 2010

Editor's Remarks

Photography is more than an art... it's a way of life

Many of us have been places where the sunrays caress our skins and the simple drip of a faucet creates good rhyms or crystal water. These are the moments that we often forget. The Pulse Magazine has taken those moments and spread it throughout its pages.

Suffolk University's illustrious campus and Boston surroundings make for the truly wonderful that have attracted international students to our doorstep. Whether it's the peaceful little snowy scenery of winter's landscape or the colorful and beautiful autumn leaves, we have it all.

House, these are moments that many years from now, we will look back on and remember about our time here at Suffolk University. This is a year in photos.

This year's edition is special. It puts together the art of photography and graphic design that supersedes last year's edition. As Editor, I'd like to remind you that this edition has been put together with care and consideration for all the different departments and organizations that make Suffolk University unique. Now, with the help of this photography magazine, we present to you a wonderful and truly memorable year in photos.

A group of young people are captured in a moment of joyful celebration. They are standing in a line, singing and dancing. The man on the far left is looking upwards with his mouth open. The women next to him are also singing, with some looking towards the camera and others looking away. They are wearing a variety of clothing, including a red top, a black dress, and a patterned top. The background is dark, with several vertical blue light streaks. The overall mood is festive and energetic.
